

Contents

List of Figures	ix
Chronology of the British Slave Trade and Empire	xi
Acknowledgements	xv
Introduction	1
1 Building a Common Vocabulary: The Language of Reform and the Slave-Trade Debates	11
Cultural Shifts and the Language of Reform	14
Surveying the Terrain: Major Points of Argument in the Debates	30
Overview of Scholarship and Methodology	38
2 Converging Arguments in British Resistance: Writing from the Colonies to Great Britain, 1759–1776	47
Contentious Quakers: Anthony Benezet and Colonial Activism	49
Slavery, Granville Sharp, and English Civil Law	61
Beginnings of a “British” Resistance to Slavery	76
3 Proliferating Antislavery Arguments and the Creation of an Activist Community, 1772–1789	83
Interpreting Mansfield through the Logos of Liberty	86
Pathos Appeal and the Politics of Oppression	100
Claiming a (Protestant) Christian Ethos: Black Voices and British Identity	110
4 The Proslavery Rebuttal: Developing New Strategies of Defense, 1770–1789	127
Invalidating Antislavery Interpretations of the “Mansfield decision”	129
Developing Counter-Arguments and Rhetorical Strategies	141
Counter-Images of Identity: The Slave-Holding Briton	155

5 Whose Victory? Abolition and the Construction of British Identity, 1788–1807	171
Proliferation of Abolitionist Rhetoric, 1785–1796	174
Recasting Humanity in the Planter/Merchant Image, 1788–1793	191
Abolishing the Slave Trade and Building an Empire, 1795–1807	203
Epilogue: Towards an Imperial Briton	211
Bibliography	219
Index	239