

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	vii
List of Contributors	viii
Acknowledgements and Dedications	xi

Part 1 Prospects for Democratic Policing

Introduction	3
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski
1 Assessing the Obstacles	11
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski
2 Policing and Police Reform in the US: Adequate for Export?	43
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski
3 The Principles of Democratic Policing	69
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski
4 Implementing Democratic Policing and Related Initiatives	99
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

Part 2 Country Case Studies

Introduction	129
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski
5 Policing and Institution Building in Iraq	131
Rehan Mullick and Rabia Nusrat
6 Crime, Power, and Policing in South Africa: Beyond Protected Privilege and Privileged Protection	149
Robert Shanafelt
7 Human Rights and Democratic Police Reform in Northern Ireland	165
Steven T. Engel
8 Creating Police Partnerships with Civil Society in Kazakhstan through US-Funded Domestic Violence Training: A Step Toward Democratic Policing	179
Edward Snajdr

vi	Democratic Policing in Transitional and Developing Countries
9	The Role of the Police in Promoting the Rule of Law Heath Grant, Jane Grabias, and Roy Godson	199
Part 3 Conclusion
10	Conclusion Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski	211
	Bibliography	219
	Index	247