

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Introduction: A Science Full of Shocks, Sparks and Smells Bernadette Bensaude-Vincent and Christine Blondel	1
1 The Laboratory, the Workshop, and the Theatre of Experiment Larry Stewart	11
2 Technology, Curiosity and Utility in France and in England in the Eighteenth Century Liliane Pérez	25
3 Amusing Physics Jessica Riskin	43
4 Experimental Physics in Enlightenment Paris: The Practice of Popularization in Urban Culture Michael R. Lynn	65
5 Domestic Spectacles: Electrical Instruments between Business and Conversation Paola Bertucci	75
6 The Sale of Shocks and Sparks: Itinerant Electricians in the German Enlightenment Oliver Hochadel	89
7 Between Commerce and Philanthropy: Chemistry Courses in Eighteenth-century Paris Christine Lehman	103
8 Joseph Priestley and the Chemical Sublime in British Public Science Jan Golinski	117
9 Chemistry on Stage: G.F. Rouelle and the Theatricality of Eighteenth-century Chemistry Lissa Roberts	129

Honoré Fragonard, Anatomical Virtuoso
Jonathan Simon