The world’s economic and socio-political landscape has changed dramatically and created a now-or-never momentum for transformation and innovation. “Business as usual” no longer works. The time has come to fundamentally rethink enterprise, economics and development.

The Gower Transformation and Innovation Series, with contributions by leading thinkers-and-doers from diverse cultures across the globe, combines theory and practice, informing both decision makers and scholars. It provides cutting-edge, viable approaches to the unprecedented challenges faced by business leaders, management consultants, economic policy makers and development agents.

The pioneering Integral Worlds approach, developed by Lessem and Schieffer, provides a unique and coherent orientation to the wide-ranging volumes in the series. This approach combines individual, organizational and socio-economic development. Drawing on the particularities of each and every culture, it draws on the richness of the world’s diverse cultures, and activates the potential for a holistic realignment of enterprise and economics with other major dimensions of society, such as nature and community; culture and spirituality; as well as science, systems and technology.

The following combination of six titles provides a unique introduction to the Transformation & Innovation Series as a whole. We therefore developed a special, multiple book offer, comprised of these titles, which we conceive of as the “ultimate starter pack” for enterprise transformation and social innovation.

SPECIAL PACKAGE OFFER FROM APRIL 2014 – £250.00

Many of our readers acquire more than one book of the series.

Indeed, many, keen to stay abreast of latest developments in the crucially relevant, emergent field covered by this series, have become collectors of all series titles. The following combination of six titles provides a unique introduction to the Transformation & Innovation Series as a whole. We therefore developed a special, multiple book offer, comprised of these titles, which we conceive of as the “ultimate starter pack” for enterprise transformation and social innovation.

SERIES EDITORS

Professor Ronnie Lessem (lessem@trans-4m.com) was born in Zimbabwe of central European parentage, and graduated from Harvard Business School and the London School of Economics. He has written some 30 books, the last six together with Alexander Schieffer, on self, organizational and societal development from a transcultural, transformational perspective. He has also been an international management consultant in Europe and America, and Africa for three decades, and has taught at Cass Business School in London, IMD in Lausanne, and Wits Graduate Business School in South Africa.

Professor Alexander Schieffer (schieffer@trans-4m.com) co-founded, with Ronnie Lessem, TRANS4M Center for Integral Development (Geneva), designed to (r)evolutionize education, research and development. Schieffer was born in Germany, and received his PhD from the University of St. Gallen, Switzerland, where he lectures in International Development. Formerly, he was CEO of First Asia Publishing (Singapore), Founder of CELL Center of Excellence for Leadership and Learning (Munich), an internal Management Consultant with the Bertelsmann Group (London) and worked in Investment Banking (Frankfurt).

Lessem & Schieffer co-founded Geneva-based TRANS4M Center for Integral Development (www.trans-4m.com) whose cutting-edge programs, applied around the world, provide innovative culture-specific responses to burning socio-economic issues. TRANS4M leverages its impact through closely aligned partner organizations across the globe, from South Africa to Egypt, from Zimbabwe to Nigeria, from Sri Lanka to India, and from Slovenia to the UK. TRANS4M is affiliated with Heliopolis University for Sustainable Development in Egypt and Da Vinci Institute in South Africa.
