

Power and Justice in International Relations

Interdisciplinary Approaches to Global Challenges
Edited by Marie-Luisa Frick and Andreas Oberprantacher, both at the University of Innsbruck, Austria

December 2009
284 pages
978-0-7546-7771-0

234 x 156 mm
Hardback
$99.95

Outstanding and thought-provoking, this book provides up-to-date and in-depth analyses of current developments in international politics. It highlights the (unilateral) use of force in international relations and its implication for international law, the chances and risks of international criminal justice, and the question of epistemic violence with regard to dominant discourses in the theory of international relations, such as nation-building and intercultural dialogue. Furthermore, the book focuses on conditions for global social and ecological justice in international economics against the background of financial crisis. It contributes in particular to a better understanding of the relation between power and justice in view of current global tensions while reflecting the work of the internationally acclaimed philosopher Hans Köchler.

Contents

Foreword, Marie-Luisa Frick and Andreas Oberprantacher; Introduction: a man and his quest for global justice, Chandra Muzaffar; Part 1 Power Unleashed? The Use of Force in International Relations and the Future of International Law: From a unipolar to a multipolar world: a post-Bush US presidency for a post-Western world, Anthony Carty; Did Captain America kill international law?, Chin Leng Lim; Opting for truth: the Roman Catholic Church in international affairs, Jodok Troy; Difference arguments in international law and relations, Sienho Yee. Part 2 Conceptual Disputes in Contemporary International Law: Peace through law revisited: Kelsen's vision of international law at the beginning of the 21st century, Andreas Th. Müller; Post-bellum war crimes tribunals and contemporary international law: adjudging state responsibility and 'war guilt' issues, Edward McWhinney; The concept of human security: does it add anything of value to international legal theory or practice?, Lyal S. Sunga. Part 3 Knowledge Production and Epistemic Violence in International Relations: The epistemic violence of the international security system in Africa, Belachew Gebrewold; Human rights and the challenges of intercultural dialogue in the 21st century: a perspective from sub-Saharan Africa, Michael O. Maduagwu; Overcoming cover-science in Latin American social sciences and humanities - an intervention, Johannes Maerk; The tyranny of the status quo: economic modeling, economic policy paradigms, and the financial crisis, Jesús Crespo Cuaresma. Part 4 Global Social Justice and the Question of Power: International economics and the question of power: a manifold but obscured relationship, Andreas Exenberger; Was Marx right after all? A critical analysis of the global financial crisis, Elmar Altvater; Capitalism vs. ecology: nature, too, expects justice!, Türkaya Ataöv; Cooperation and global public goods: aspects of fairness in international relations, Ulrich Metschl; Index.

About the Editor

Marie-Luisa Frick and Andreas Oberprantacher are senior researchers in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Innsbruck, Austria

www.ashgate.com/isbn/9780754677710

ASHGATE

To order this book please visit www.ashgate.com, or email orders@ashgate.com
A 10% discount applies to orders placed through www.ashgate.com